 Be sure to always remember our year in Mrs. Sheffer's class. I she likes still haven't decided if she likes me or not. School will soon be over and there will be no more Mrs. Sheffer.
 Have lots of fun and Good Luck in the future.
 See you next year,

FOREWORD: To The Hands That Mold EHS . . .

As the artist molds a lump of clay into a finished sculpture, the teachers at Eastwood are dedicated to the task of molding our minds. This is done not only through the academic subjects, but also through the extracurricular activities including clubs, instrumental and vocal ensembles, and athletics.

Hands are used as the symbol of achievement in this edition of the AQUILA, because the actions of our hands are controlled by the actions of our minds, which have been molded and expanded by the 'hands' of our teachers.

"But hand and mind can use the tools they get." The administrators at Eastwood are striving to provide the best possible tools for the education of our minds. These tools are not always tangible objects such as the wide selection of audio-visual aids available--maps, film strips, records--but also include less tangible things--the hours of extra reading done by a teacher preparing the next day's lesson, the preparation of an outline for an in-class discussion, the careful grading of tests and papers. But the teacher is rewarded by even less tangible things--the look of awareness when a student suddenly understands a difficult problem, the sound of voices raised in a stimulating and intelligent discussion, the smile of understanding when that meaning all at once becomes clear. These are the rewards for which every teacher at Eastwood strives. That these goals have been reached is amply proved in the following pages.

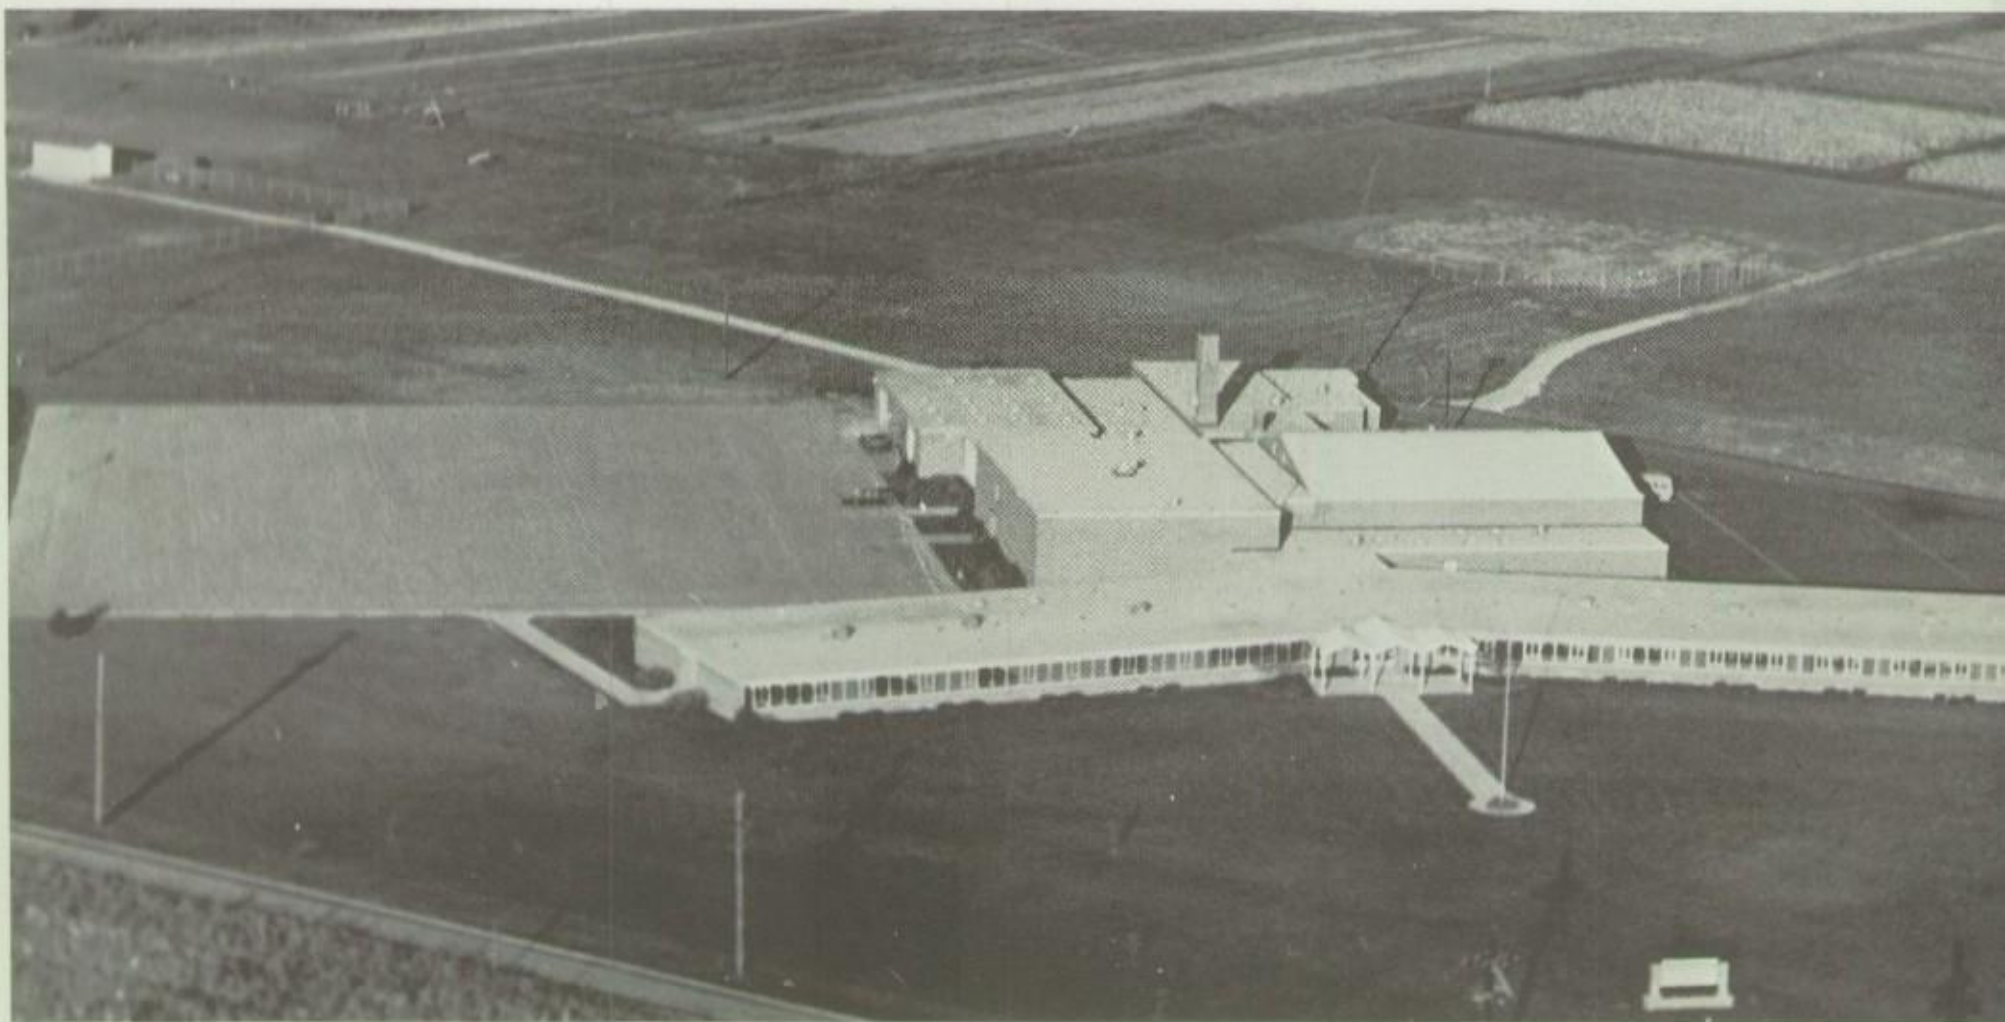

We the students of the Eastwood School District invite you to see and wonder at the varied achievements of the minds and hands of both students and teachers. Read ... and be proud.

We Dedicate
The 1968

Aquila.

Eastwood Administrators Speak To Students

MR. DALLAS E. GARDNER
Superintendent of Eastwood Schools

"The complex age in which we live places more and more demands upon the graduates of today's high schools.

The only logical solution to physical and social problems facing our society today is a sound educational system founded on fundamental concepts and dedicated to the peaceful dissemination of knowledge to all.

We extend best wishes to the members of the class of 1968. Your challenge is great; your responsibilities are even greater.

We challenge the underclassmen to perform even better, if possible, than the class of 1968 in all avenues of endeavor."

--Mr. Richard E. Lowrie
Principal, Eastwood High School

"As the progress of the Eastwood School District is historically recorded in another edition of the AQUILA, as the educational and social lives of our students are pictorially and literally interpreted, we feel a growing commitment to each boy and girl in the Eastwood community.

The strength of the institution of public education and the force for human betterment that it exercises have emerged from experience of our teachers and students through hard work, dedication to duty, and a recognition of the worth and dignity of each individual. This has been further exemplified by the co-operative spirit of local citizens groups as they study and report on the operation of the entire school system. The success of our students, and in particular the members of the class of 1968, reflect the pride of the citizens in this district.

Again this year, as we accept a copy of this fine yearbook, we pay tribute to an excellent publications staff and salute our entire student body for a job well done."

For Eastwood's '68 seniors, graduation ceremonies held on June 2 are the culmination of twelve years of experience and accomplishment. Commencement marks both an end and a beginning--an end to the activities and interests which are high school, and the beginning of new interests and friendships in other areas of life. As seniors prepare for graduation and the future beyond, they often pause to think back on the events of the past four years.

They remember with pride the moments as freshmen, when they were confronted by lockers, new faces and confusion. The same pride continued through the sophomore year when they worked eagerly on a fund-raising car wash. As juniors, the class worked steadily on committees to create the romantic theme, 'Golden Sands', the Junior-Senior Prom.

Then, senior year arrived. Along with necessary academic subjects, the seniors assumed extra responsibilities as club officers, team captains, and editorial leaders. Early in the year, seniors began seriously considering future plans--colleges, trade schools, job opportunities, and the armed forces. Visitations and conferences were almost daily occurrences as they made decisions. Senior portraits were ordered and exchanged. The class decided on a carnation as its flower and King's Blue and Gold as its colors. The class also chose their motto, "Strive to be part of the answer, not the problem."

Soon, the seniors will look back, not as seniors, but as alumni. Assuming their positions in the world, each class member will strive to use to the fullest, the knowledge gained through four years of arduous, but rewarding study. This knowledge will stand them in good stead in the nearing future when the Class of 1968 takes its place as "part of the answer, not the problem."

The traditional 'green' Freshmen did not enter Eastwood High School this year. These Freshmen had been given a tour of the high school in August by members of the Student Council and then came fully prepared for their first day of high school in September.

Many new things faced these students on entering this new atmosphere. Electing class officers, deciding what money-raising projects to sponsor throughout their high school career, and of course, entering into the course of activities in which the other high schoolers had had a taste were some of their activities.

As these students began to move on in their first school year, they found that it provided not only this new idea of learning to co-operate with their peers but also that it progressed so quickly that there seemed not to be enough time to do all they wanted, and it was hard for them to believe that they would soon be the ones guiding Freshmen into the halls of EHS.

Freshman, M. Johnson converses with a junior about Pep Week activities.

Science Never Ends

D. Kook studies the ever present atom.

L. Rolf and L. Beeker find Chemistry intriguing.

Advanced Chemistry students set up a tedious experiment.

The Importance Of Math Not Lost At EHS

In the age of tomorrow, math and science are vital. Discoveries may be made in new cures to save lives or even a way to provide for the ever-growing population. These are some of the challenges put to Eastwood. In return, Eastwood must turn out educated minds to cope with and solve these problems. The math and science departments are devised to offer the students that adequate education needed.

The math department must teach, entice, and offer to the students answers to many questions which arise from this fast moving era. Algebra I, II, III, geometry, and seminar are offered to the searching mind. To those interested in the business world General Math I, and II are offered.

In keeping up, the science department must also meet its ever-growing needs. Eastwood offers to the students general science, Biology I, II, Chemistry I, II, and physics.

Mr. Gebhardt explains some mechanics of Algebra I to a stumped student.

Boys Learn Vocational Skills

The industrial arts and vocational agriculture departments of Eastwood High School aid many boys in developing vocational interests.

In the huge showcase in the north wing, the projects of the shop classes are displayed. Projects throughout the year range from small articles such as gun racks to larger pieces of furniture such as chairs, tables and cedar chests.

When the display case is not being used to show the products of the shop classes, the vocational agriculture classes use it to inform the students of their activities. Their interests lay in the fields of cattle and crop raising and improved farming methods. The tract of land farmed by the Vo-Ag classes is proof of their achievements.

BELOW: R. Hansen works diligently to complete an industrial arts project.

VO - AG Prepares the Future Farmer

K. Zellin and K. Luidhardt review a finished job, well done.

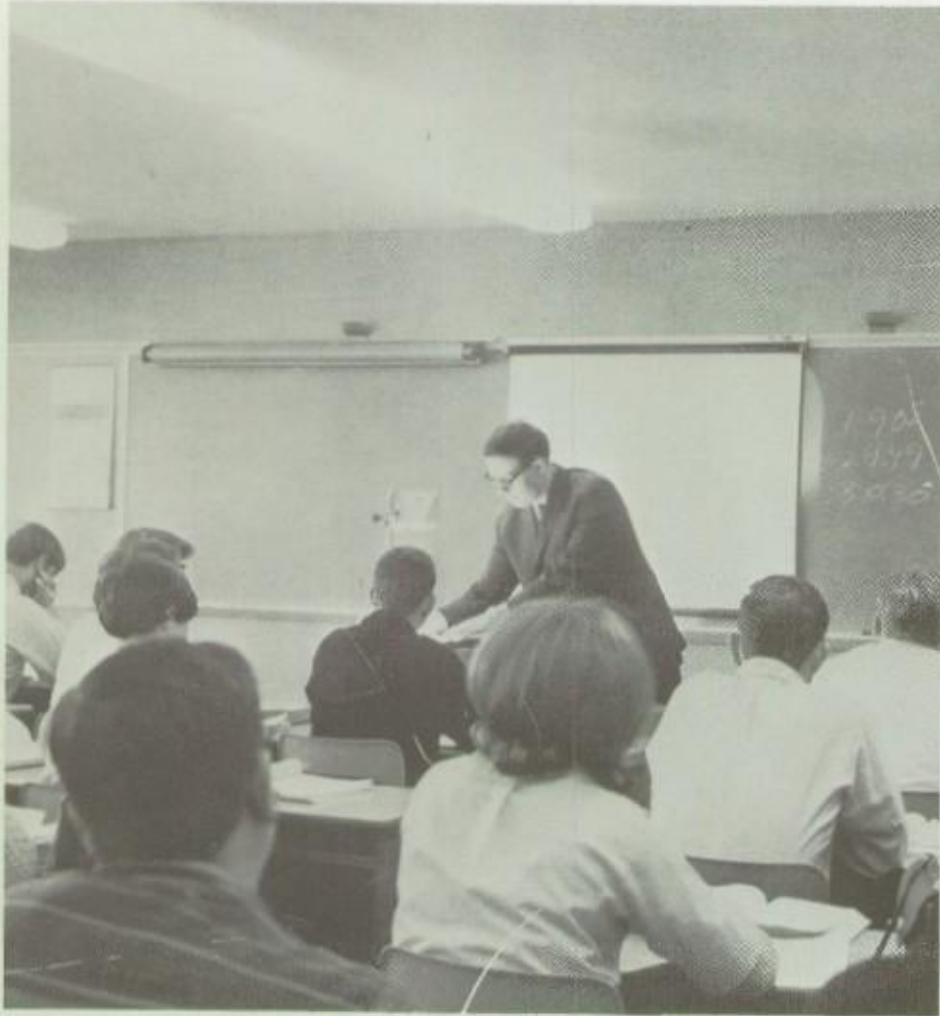

L. Hutchinson looks forward to his day of farming.

Mr. Haskins discusses corn yield with neighboring farmer K. Reitzel and student, D. Marten.

Many At Eastwood Prepare For Business World.

Bookkeeping class is aided by an overhead projector.

Journalism II class prepares stories.

Typists learn speed and accuracy.

Because of today's fast-moving world, those going into a business field need as good a background as possible, thus, a complete course in business education is offered at Eastwood for all those who plan to become secretaries, stenographers, or office workers. The thorough curriculum begins with Typing I and II. A student may continue his study in business education with Bookkeeping I and II, shorthand, notehand, Journalism I and II, general business and business law. A staff of competent teachers head the department.

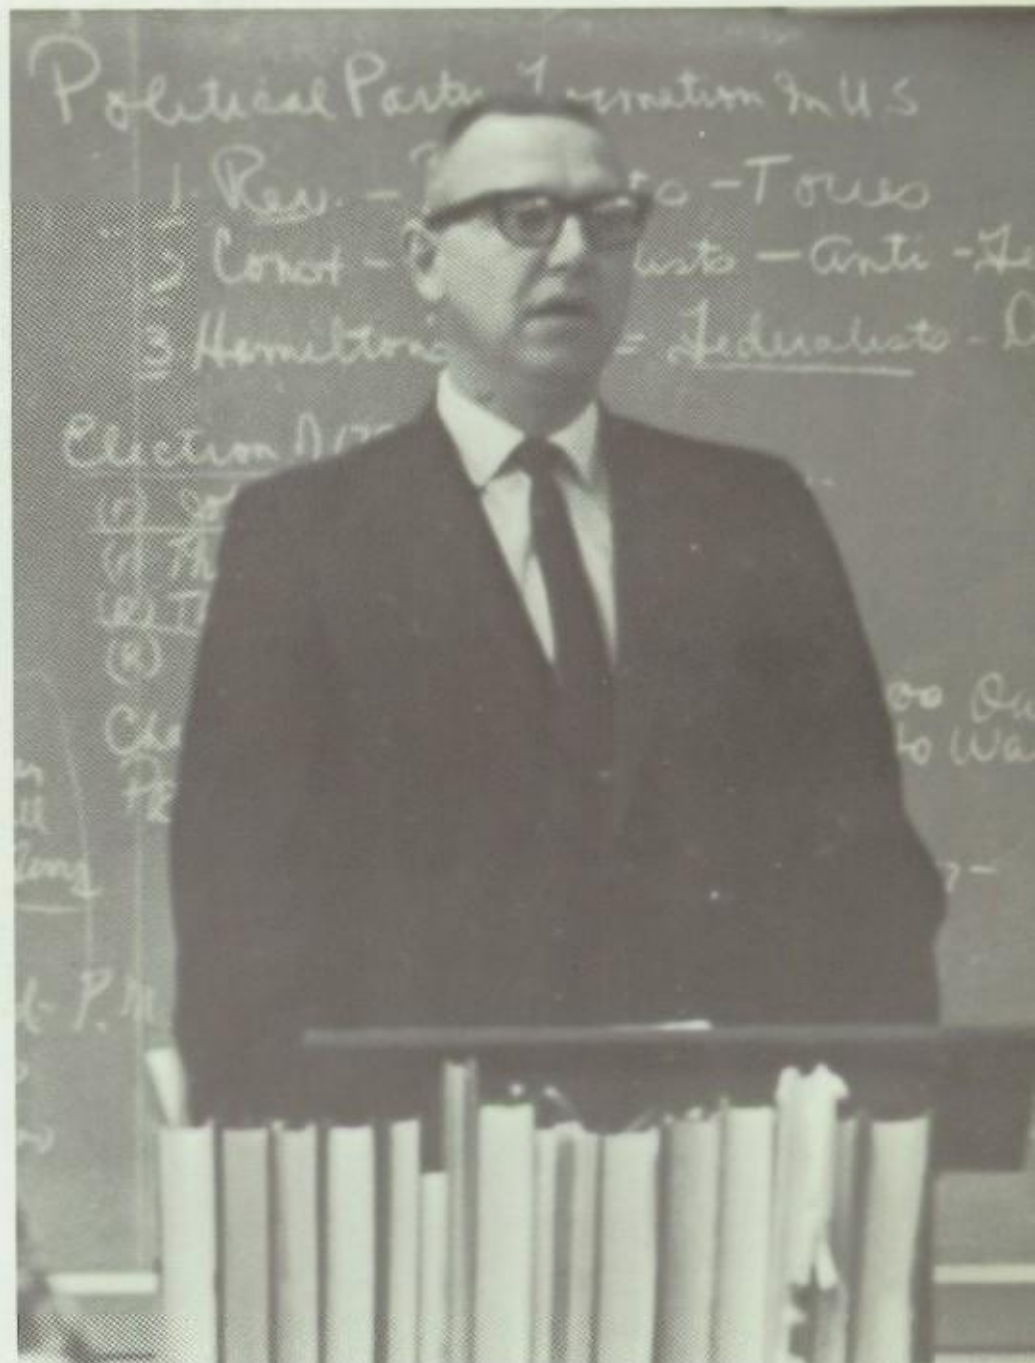

Social Studies Develops Better Citizens

Eastwood offers a variety of subjects in the Social Science field. The earliest course available to high school students is Ancient history, where early civilizations are studied. Next in line, is American history which is required of all Juniors. A complete history of the U.S. is traced in this course. As Seniors, students must enroll in American government, a course that emphasizes the importance of the American democratic government.

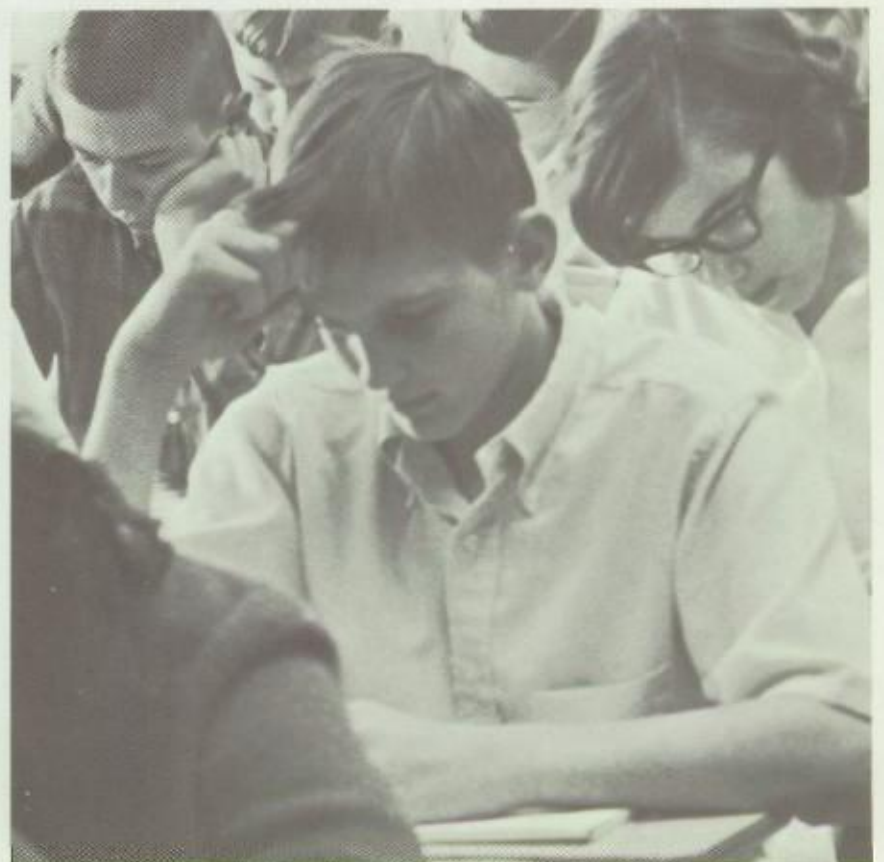

Other subjects include sociology and family living. These courses are essential in preparing students for the responsibilities of marriage, family and community citizenship.

A study of philosophy, beginning with ancient Chian and including present day thought trends, was one of the major areas of interest in the Humanities group. This class is directed by Mrs. Cletus Sheffler and is conducted as a voluntary study program for students who desire to expand their knowledge in the five humanities: art, music, science, history, and philosophy.

As an enrichment to the class discussions, the group enjoys various activities such as attending the Artist's Series at Bowling Green University, touring special exhibits at the Toledo Museum of Art, and visiting the WSPD television studio. The Group convenes on Monday and Friday mornings before school for lectures and discussions.

Behind The Scenes In Academics

Speech And Knowledge Of Languages Aid Communications

Mr. Barney explains qualities of a good speaker.

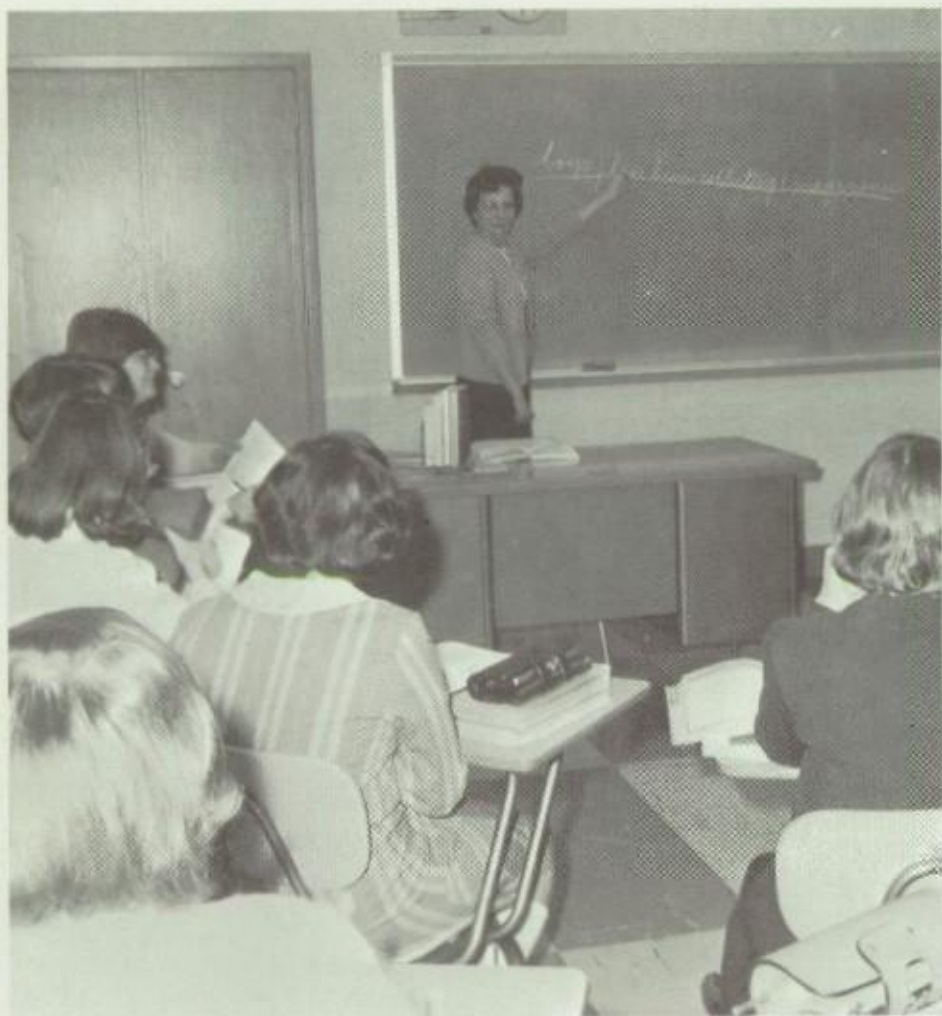

Mr. Stearns directs translation in German class.

RIGHT: Mrs. Cornell leads discussion in French.

BELOW: Students view film in Spanish dialect.

English — Our Spoken Word

Freshman English class studies the structure of a sentence under the instruction of Mrs. Amos.

'Ambiguous reference' is the topic of discussion for Junior English department.

The English, speech, and foreign language departments of Eastwood High School are designed to benefit the student. They show a student how he can express himself through words or gestures. Also, they give an understanding of different people.

The English department makes a full scale study of the language most common to us. It covers grammar rules, vocabulary, and deep studies on novels, short stories, and poetry. With the addition of English composition, English Literature, and World Literature, a student is able to specialize in one field of the English department.

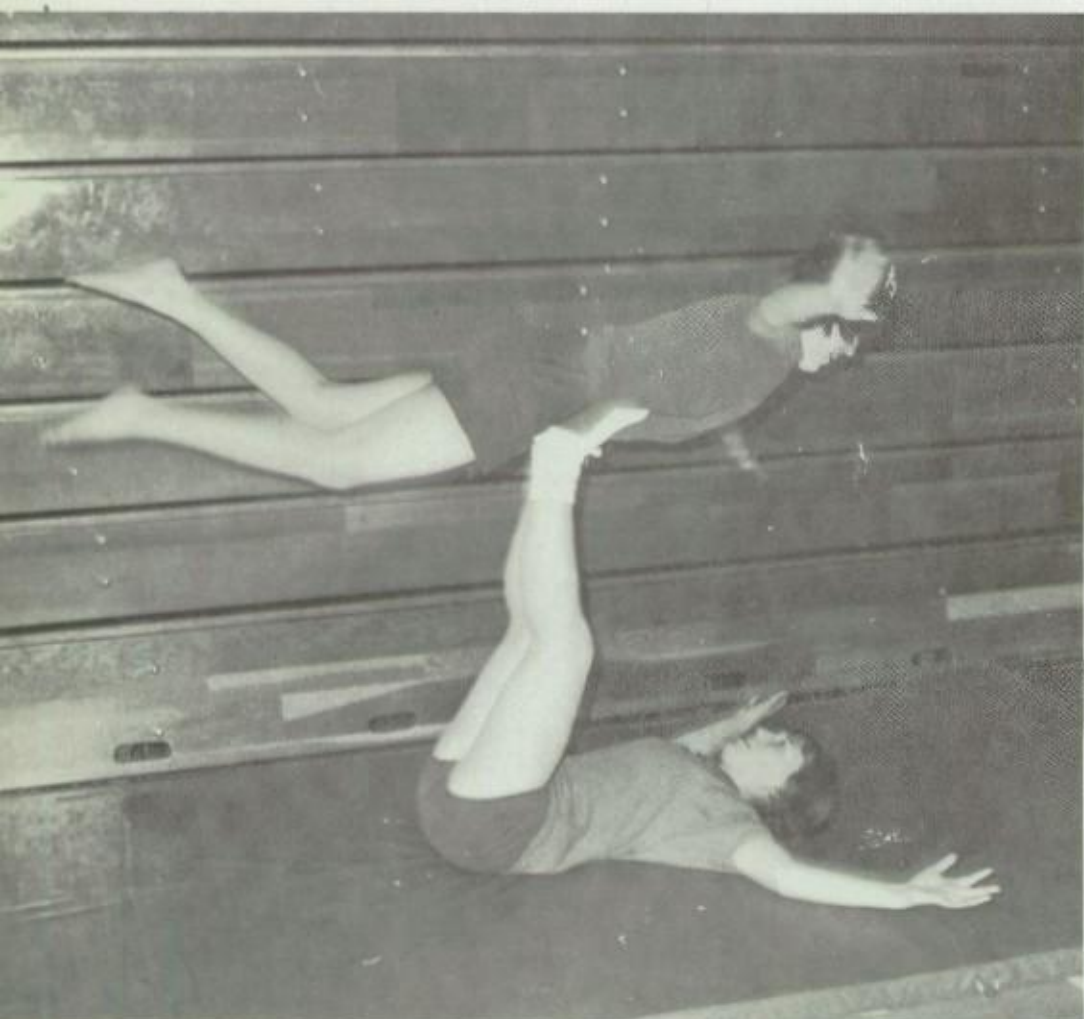

Since English teaches a person to express himself in writing, speech teaches one to express himself through words. In speech, a student learns to use effectively gestures, diction, tone of voice, and fluency.

With the addition of German II and Spanish III, students are offered this year a complete study of these foreign languages. The foreign languages enable a student to communicate with and understand other people. Also, the foreign languages provide some of the history to the English language.

The Physically Fit Serve The Nation Well

Careful on the tum-tum!

Kathy Oehmke serves the winning point.

RIGHT: Mrs. Mustain directs traffic.

Knowing the importance of being physically fit in today's everchanging society, the Health and Physical Education Departments at Eastwood have developed a regular, active program of vigorous exercise.

Some of the various activities included in the Phys. Ed program are volleyball, soccer, football, basketball and hockey. The students acquire skill and good sportsmanship from participating in these activities.

In health class, the students learn about the functions of the human body and why they take place. They recognize the importance of a conscientious health program in daily living to develop a healthy body and mind.

Music Department Has Many Facets

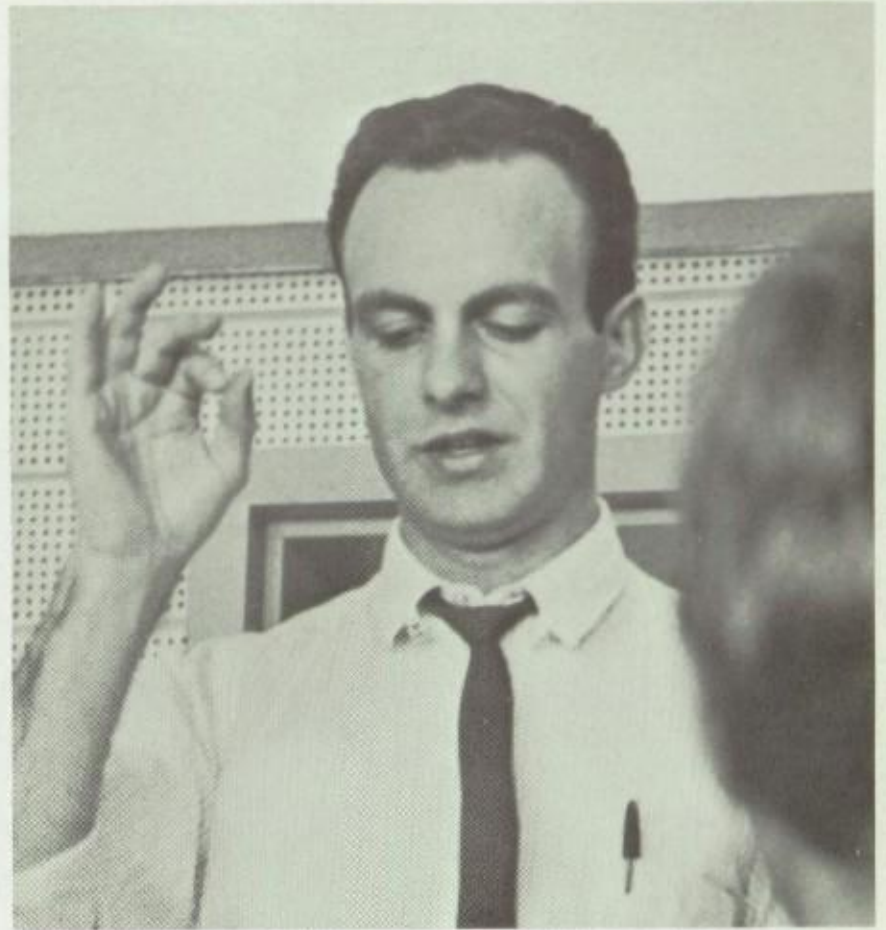

The music department, composed of the bands and choruses, worked hard to produce some of the county's finest music this year.

The bands and choruses were kept busy throughout the year with the Winter Concert, the annual "Pops" Concert, and the district contests. The constant practice required proved to be a challenge for the students of band and chorus.

For the first time this year both the symphonic and concert bands participated in the district contest. The Pep Band provided entertainment during the basketball games, and the Stage Band was available for entertainment at dances, dinners, meetings, and a variety of school functions.

The choral department provided the basis for the annual musical. It also provided ensembles which traveled the area to provide musical enjoyment for many people of various organizations.

Both departments also had ensembles, quartets, trios, and solos to round out the Eastwood High music department.

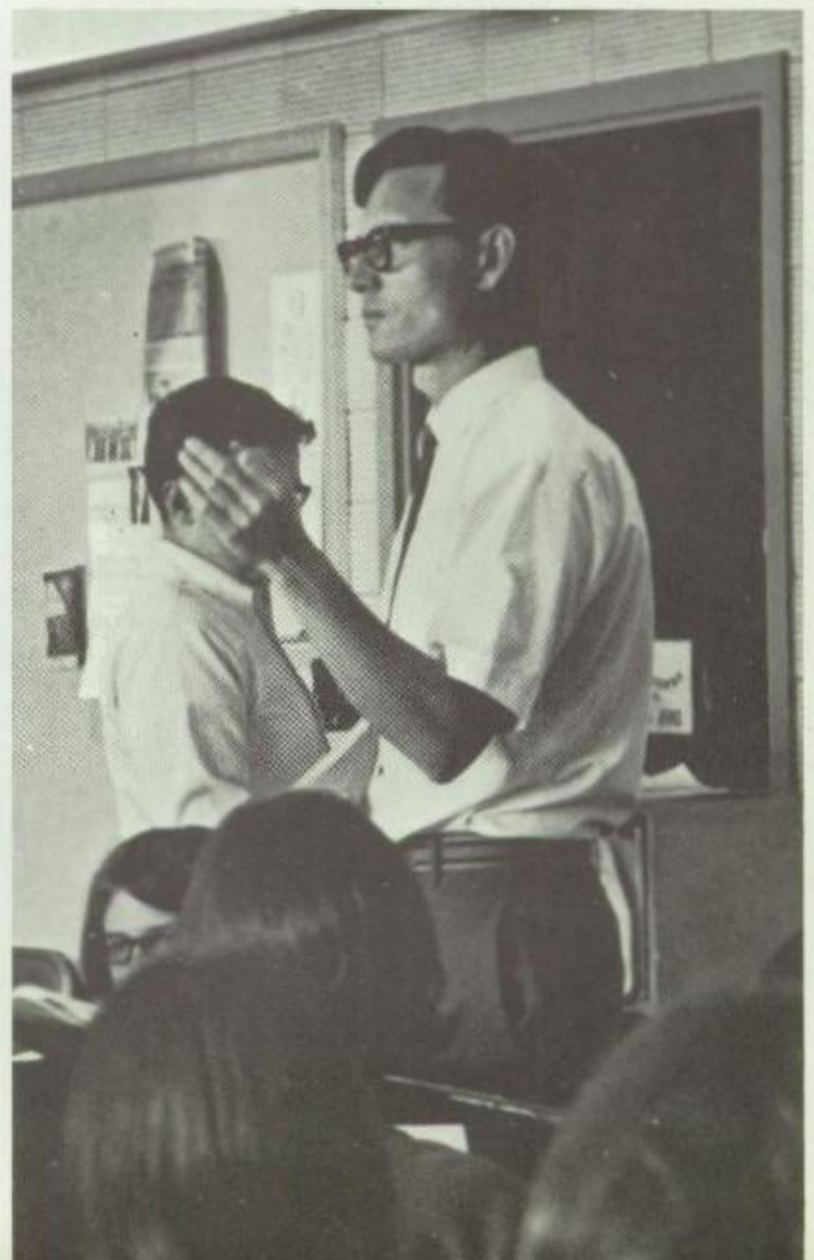

Mr. "Dee" guides students to a better understanding of music.

Mr. "Mac" turns out many fine musicians.

Freshman drummers set the pace for the songs.

Penta County Students Find School

M. Aring closely examines his work.

J. Niggemyer and D. Weber discuss the problem.

Penta county offers many things which EHS is unable to provide in areas of specialized training. Types of education offered vary from cosmetology to horticulture. Any place you look at Penta, hands are busy creating, punching buttons, repairing mechanical difficulties, or, in some constructive way, trying to better themselves for the future. Not only these, but also a field of various academic subjects are offered to fulfill graduation requirements.

Extracurricular functions are held at Penta County and add a great deal of enthusiasm for the students, who may participate in organizations at the Eastwood High School building, also.

Eastwood has enrolled 64 students at Penta this year, 42 of which are seniors that will graduate in 1968.

Taking a breather is R. Greulich.

Pleasurable As Well As Educational

G. Briggs seems to have found the problem.

R. Grover improves his work.

R. Rollo is intrigued by class discussion.

Hair setting is the subject of interest with V. Long and fellow classmate.

Student Council girls sell mums for Homecoming.

The Student Council is an organization composed of members who are elected by the student body to represent each class. This organization is the governing body of the school and sponsors numerous activities throughout the school year. A few are as follows: football and basketball homecomings, Christmas assembly, teacher appreciation day and safety and pep weeks. The members also had money making projects such as workday, selling school supplies and fruitcakes and sponsoring dances. The Student Council not only provides for these services but it also creates leadership and a sense of responsibility.

Projectionists Serve With Educational Aids.

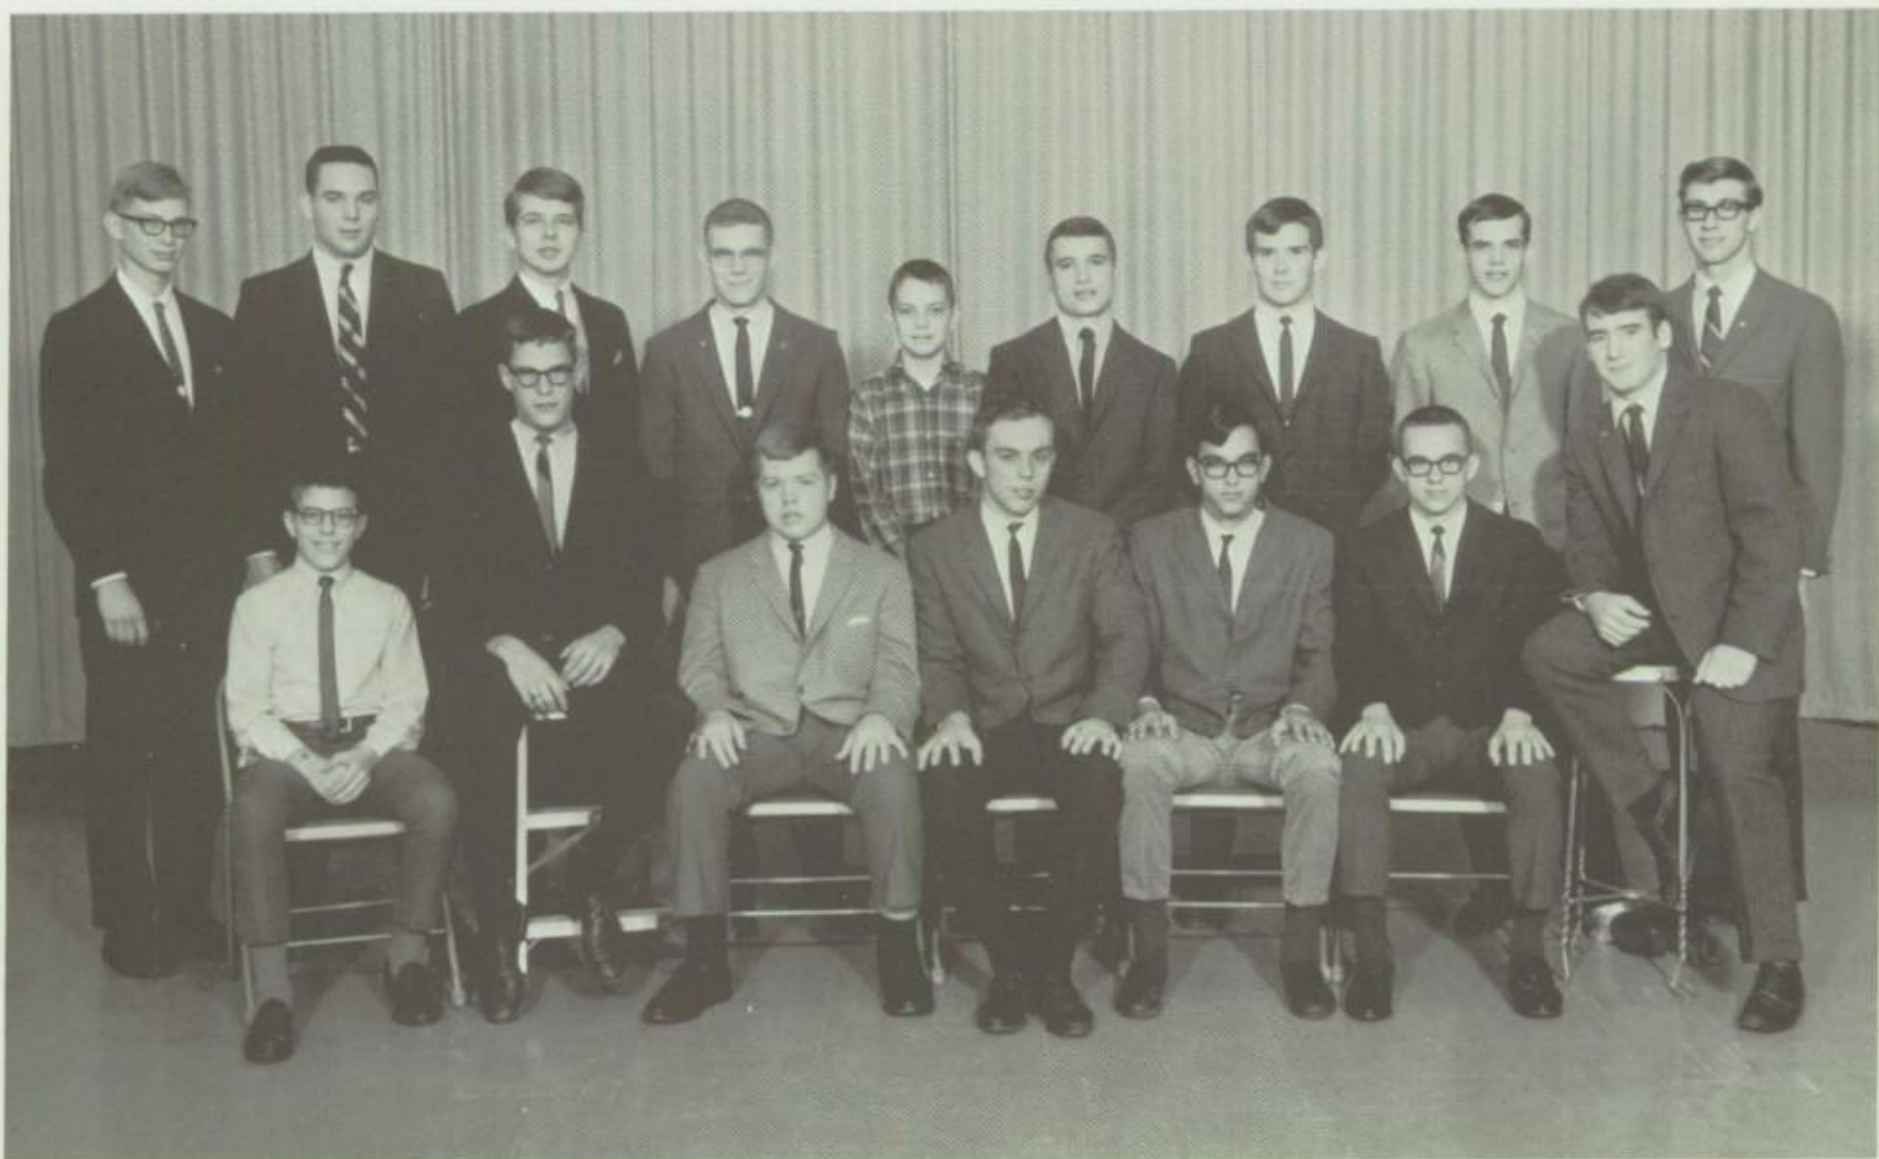

M. Gardner rolls the film to display an educational movie.

During any time of the day if there is a movie to be shown there will always be a projectionist in the study hall whom any teacher can call upon.

At the beginning of the year these boys report what study hall they have so there is always someone to take care of the movies.

There is always a record kept of where the equipment is during the day. The record is kept by the advisor of the club, Mr. Heckman. The details are always checked with Mr. Heckman before any thing is taken out.

Students Forfeit Free Time To Help

Our library consists of a large assortment of books, magazines, pamphlets, and records to assist us in all our needs. The girls chosen by the head librarian, Mrs. Cornell, give up their daily study period to help file cards, place books and do their best to run an efficient library.

They assist the students in finding resource material for themes, checking out books and magazines, or even to help find an interesting book to read for enjoyment.

Taking class attendance, typing tests, recording grades, delivering messages, and taking care of the office in the absence of the high school secretary, Mrs. Milda Sanders, are among the many duties and errands performed by the girls who work in the high school office.

These high school girls are chosen by the principal from a study hall that they would normally have had during the day to work for one period every day in the office.

Going about her daily office duties is S. Meder.

This year's F.F.A. was composed of approximately forty boys.

The organization helps members become better farmers by actually working with machinery and crops. The F.F.A. owns land on which they grow crops, and decide on which grains are best suited for this area.

This year E.H.S. sponsored the Parliamentary Procedure contest in which twelve of our F.F.A. members participated. Also, the Senior boys attended the Livestock Judging and Grain Marketing Exchange in Chicago which provided valuable information, in addition to other judging contests.

FHA Provides For Better Homemaking

Members of FHA cast their ballots for officers.

The world moves on and so do the Future Homemakers of America with their active schedule throughout the school year. Not only do they have business meetings but also they help the school and community with different projects.

As a service to the community the girls did such things as selling Swedish Tea Rings at Christmas and selling doughnuts at football games. For their own enjoyment the girls had a skating party having had a dinner before. Various other activities such as these keep the members busy with the advice of Mrs. Helen Coe.

The girls met bi-monthly in order to fulfill the requirements of the National Future Teachers of America and also to meet the needs of the community.

One of the organizations at Eastwood that is specially designed to aid the student in his or her chosen career is the Future Teachers of America. This is one of the largest, and indeed most active clubs at school. Its purpose is to offer introductory experience in many of the tasks involved in the teaching profession.

A new system of service points was introduced this year. This system requires a member to accumulate an established amount of points throughout the year by helping Eastwood teachers grade papers, take attendance, file, and perform many other errands.

A tutoring program was also set up for elementary pupils. FTA members devoted 2 hours per week to help children in various weak areas of their study.

Meeting one afternoon a month, the SPQR, better known as the Latin Club, seeks to give members a better understanding of the ancient Roman civilization and language. Anyone having successfully completed one year of Latin and presently taking the second year or having previously taken it is eligible to join.

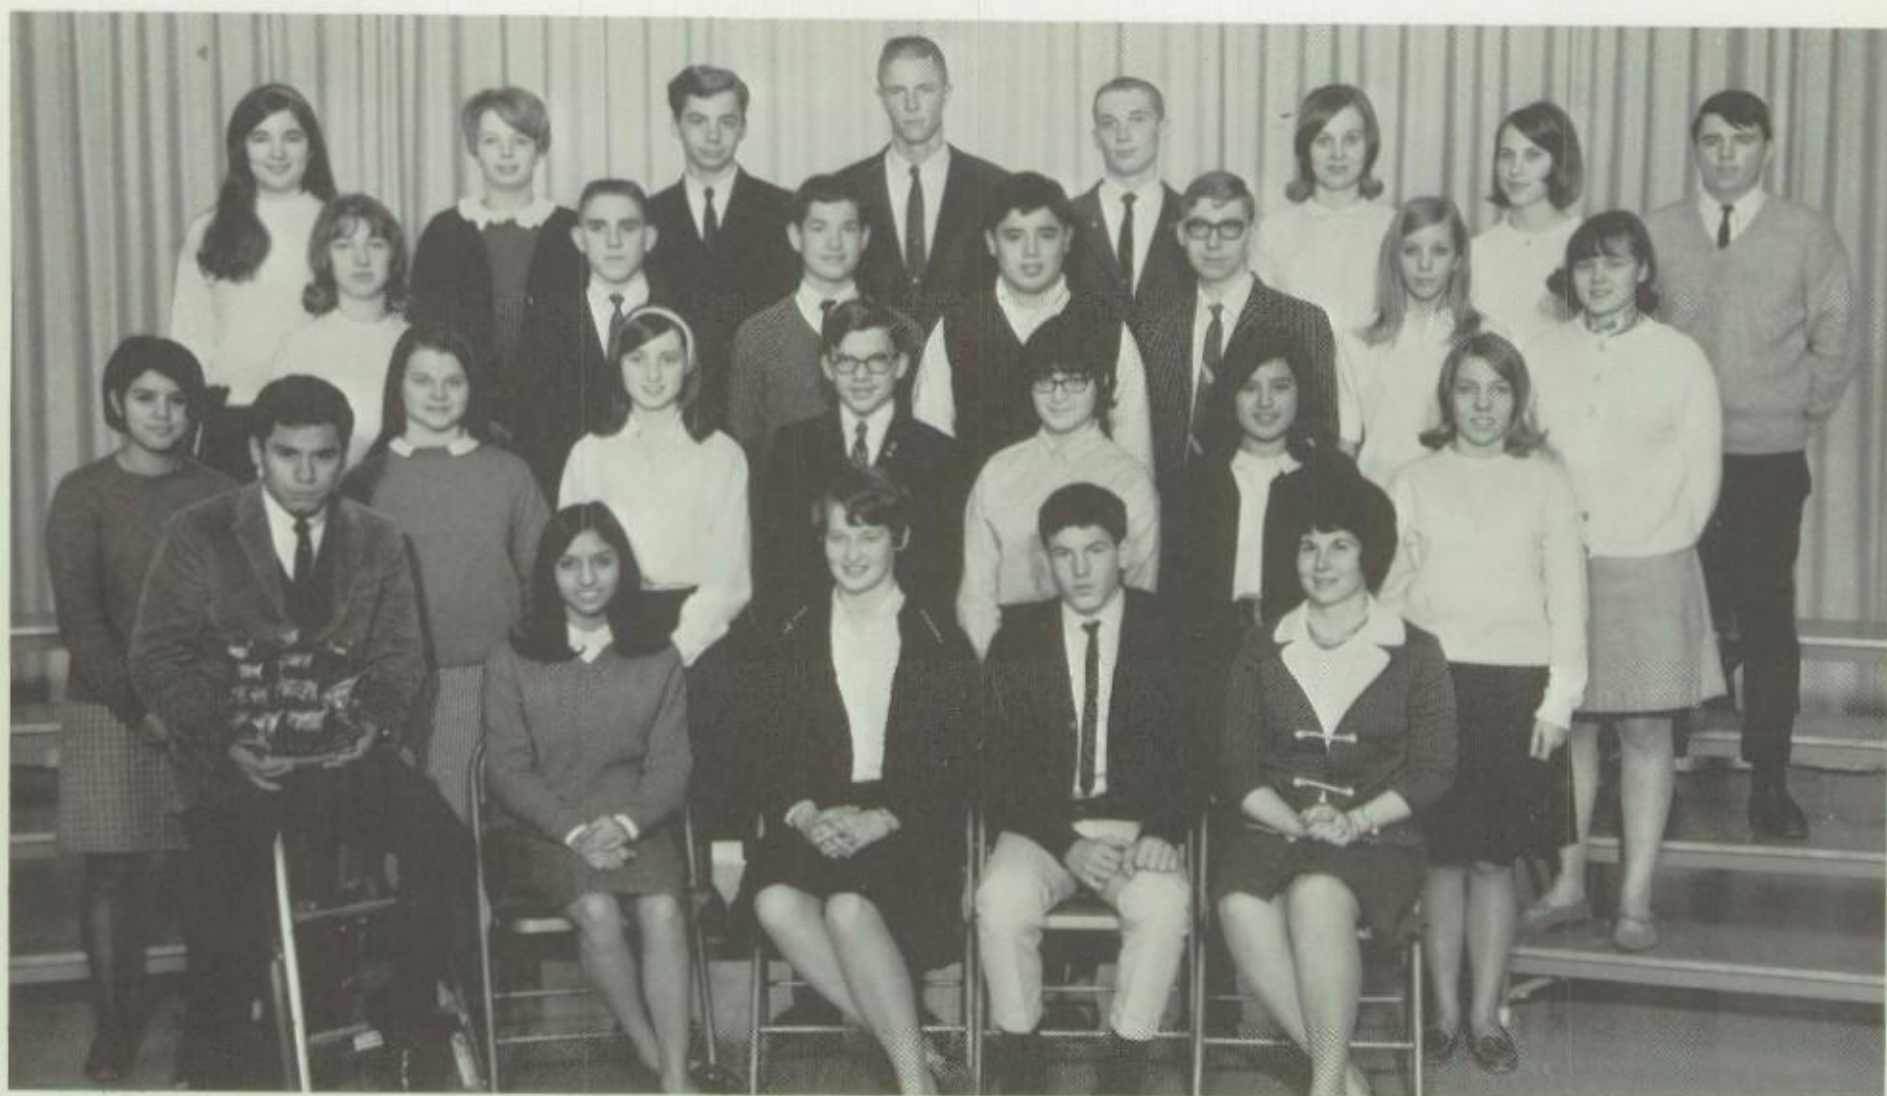

The year is highlighted by a field trip to the Art Museum, a party at Christmastime, a banquet in the Roman tradition, and the annual initiation of new members.

The Latin Club is one of the many organizations at Eastwood which serves as a supplement to the regular curriculum.

With the dual goals of fund-raising and enlargement of cultural horizons, Los Conquistadores (The Conquerors) experienced an action-packed first year. To carry out plans to send the Senior members annually to St. Augustine, Fla., a center of Spanish culture in the process of extensive restoration, the club sold doughnuts and milk after school, held car washes, and sponsored one of the special events of the year, a costumed Sadie Hawkins Day Dance. Under the heading of cultural activities were an evening of Spanish food, travel films, and music; visits to the International Festival in Toledo and the Museum of Art were enjoyed.

New Club Has Party, Sponsors Bake Sales

FIRST ROW: J. Bushman, R. Brueggemeier, B. Nollenberger, P. Davis, Mr. Sterns. SECOND ROW: S. Blevins, B. Hannan, R. Rohloff, G. Brown, S. Rothenbuhler, B. Watkins, D. Peters, A. Kirkbride.

One of the new organizations created at Eastwood this year is German Club, known to members as "Die Germanische Gesellschaft." Charter members of German Club include those who are taking or have taken German I, which, along with German II, is a new course instituted at Eastwood last year.

The purpose of the organization is the encouragement of interest in the folklore and traditions of Germany. Activities included organizational duties such as writing a constitution and bylaws, election of officers, giving a German Bake Sale and presenting bulletin boards and a pep skit. "Die Germanische Gesellschaft" is of particular interest to students, as many local families are of German descent.

The Newspaper Staff . . . Small But Mighty

L. Burkholder discovers a mistake.

To spread the news and events that happen in the halls of Eastwood High School is the job of the EAGLE'S EYE staff. The staff, composed of 2nd year Journalism students, works diligently to put out the paper every two weeks. Aside from each student receiving a paper, a copy is sent to each family in the Eastwood district. The staff was advised, the first semester by Mrs. Sue Clausen, and during the second semester by Mr. William Fischer.

The Camera Club is one of the most important clubs that serves Eastwood High School. It helps out in such ways as taking pictures for the Aquila staff and newspaper.

Twice a month they create a poster to put in the hall to show different activities and happenings in the building.

The club is bigger than ever before, because of the membership drive which was initiated this year. The club now has over 60 active members.

The members have learned the different parts of the camera and have also learned the different steps of developing pictures.

Public Speakers Excel, Gather Awards

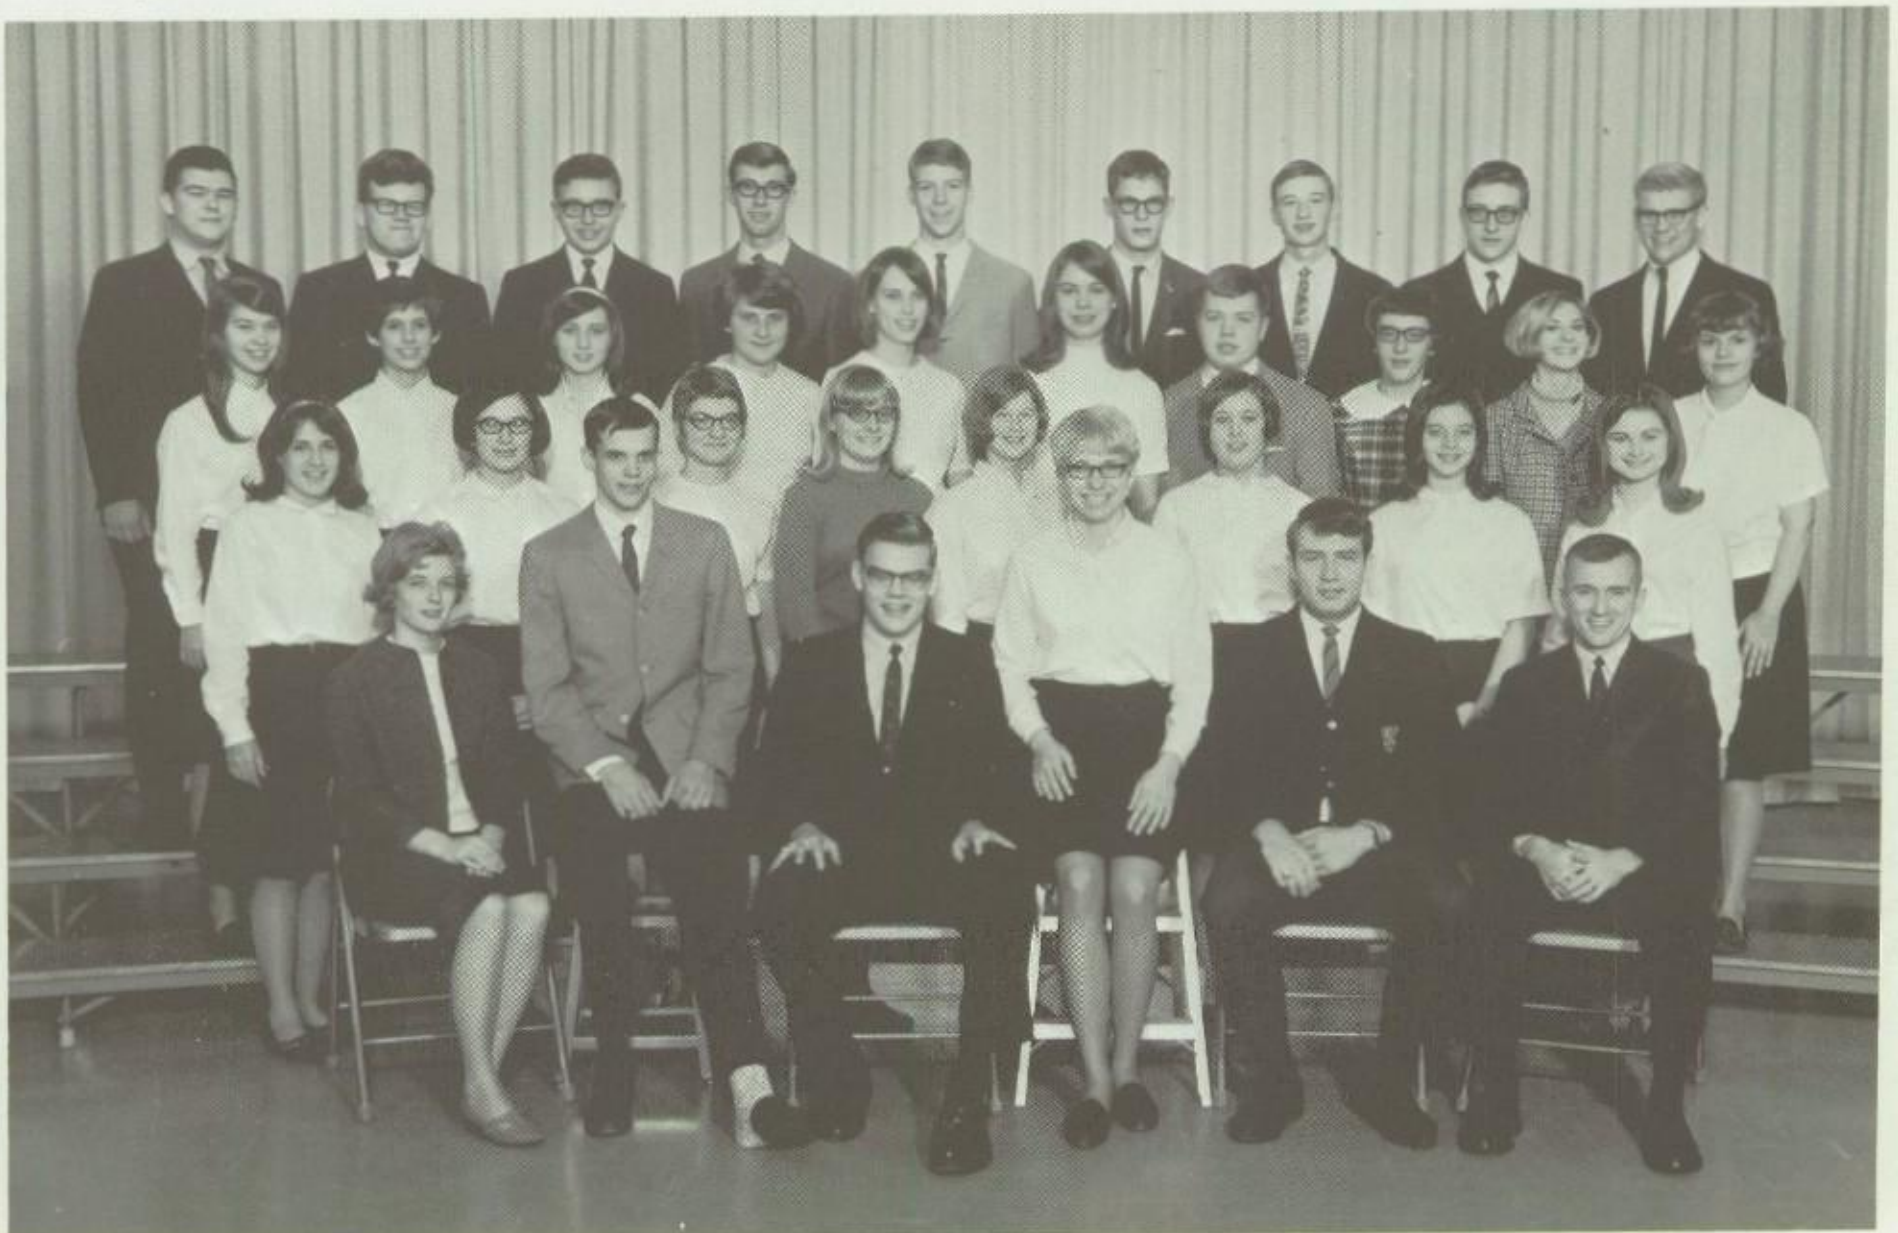

Lining the shelves of the trophy case at Eastwood, is an assortment of trophies, plaques and awards which serve to mark the outstanding achievements of individuals of the student body who excel in public speaking. These people make up the active Forensics Club.

Under the leadership of Mr. Edison Barney and Mrs. Susan Markwood, the members participate in numerous tournaments. These meets are held on Saturdays throughout the school year at other schools, and usually last most of the day. Participants can compete in various individual events or debate.

As the extracurricular circle at EHS expands, with it comes the formation of a new organization--the Key Club. This club is composed of 30 dedicated young men from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. They are selected for membership in accordance with their excellence in academics, leadership, and other personal qualifications.

The many and varied club activities are special work projects such as helping Pemberville Library move to its new location, sponsoring a slave day, and many others. The group is a division of the Kiwanis Club and is sponsored by the Luckey Kiwanis Chapter of the National Kiwanis Club.

Students Discuss The World Situation

A group of juniors and seniors who are interested in current affairs meets for an hour twice monthly, forming Political Science Discussion Group. Social Science department teachers, Mrs. Lorna Jones, Mr. Calvin Freund and Mr. Dale Bruning, met with the group on Monday nights to lead the discussion of contemporary topics such as Britain's devaluation of the pound, the United States debt, and our commitments in Vietnam. Films and magazine articles from leading national publications were used as resource material.

Any student who has a desire to exercise their artistic talent can join the Merry Messers, otherwise known as the Art Club. The club meets twice monthly at which it always has some interesting activity following the business meeting. The members took several field trips to various art exhibits which contributed greatly to their artistic talent. The years activities were highlighted by the Halloween and Christmas parties which proved quite enjoyable for those who attended. Whether busy expressing their talent or learning more about artistic techniques, members considered Art Club very worthwhile.

Arion Club is an organization which meets monthly for the purpose of providing an opportunity for musical enrichment and appreciation. This year's officers were Craig Conaway, President; Carol Campbell, Vice-president; Debbie Jacobs, Secretary-Treasurer, and Kathy Oehmke, Reporter. Dues paid by members help buy the choral awards distributed at the end of the year to outstanding members of the music department.

Other activities this year included attending several operas in Toledo, studying all types of music, revising the old constitution, and presenting a pep skit. The point system for the Arion Award was also revised.

Several Weeks Result In

Sid and Babe sing of their love.

"The Pajama Game", a musical comedy, was presented by the students of Eastwood High School. Directors Mark Deerwester and Lawrence McCormick were in charge of the production November 10, 11, and 12. The auditorium was filled to capacity for every performance.

Nearly 40 students comprised the cast. Anne Kirkbride portrayed the role of Babe Williams; Gary Bockbrader, the part of Sid Sorokin. Other supporting roles were played by Richard Hagg as Hines, and Kathy Oehmke as Gladys. Other minor cast members also admirably performed their parts, including the 24 member chorus.

The musical accompaniment was supplied by the orchestra, composed of special musical students.

In the play, Sid Sorokin has just been hired as foreman in a pajama factory in the midwest. He is very conscientious and aims to succeed where his predecessors have failed. In taking this new job, he unknowingly runs into the midst of a long dispute between the management and the girl workers. He also runs into the beautiful Babe and falls for her. Since Babe (She's union) is the head of the grievance committee and Sid (He's management) is the foreman, it is inevitable that there is a clash between them. This is not helped by the intrigue going on between Hines, the erratic efficiency expert, and Gladys, the private secretary to the boss. Gladys wears the key to the company's books around her neck with instructions from the boss that no one is to get it. Sid wants to take a look at the books and get to the bottom of the dispute and makes a play for Gladys in an effort to get the key.

Hines, then, is insanely jealous of Gladys and threatens Sid. Sid solves the problems--The workers get the raise--He gets Babe--and everyone is happy!

Some of the favorite songs of the cast of "The Pajama Game," includes, "The Pajama Game," "Hey There," "I'm Not At All In Love," "Seven and a Half Cents," and "I'll Never be Jealous Again."

A Successful "Pajama Game"

Workers figure out ways to get seven and a half-cent raise.

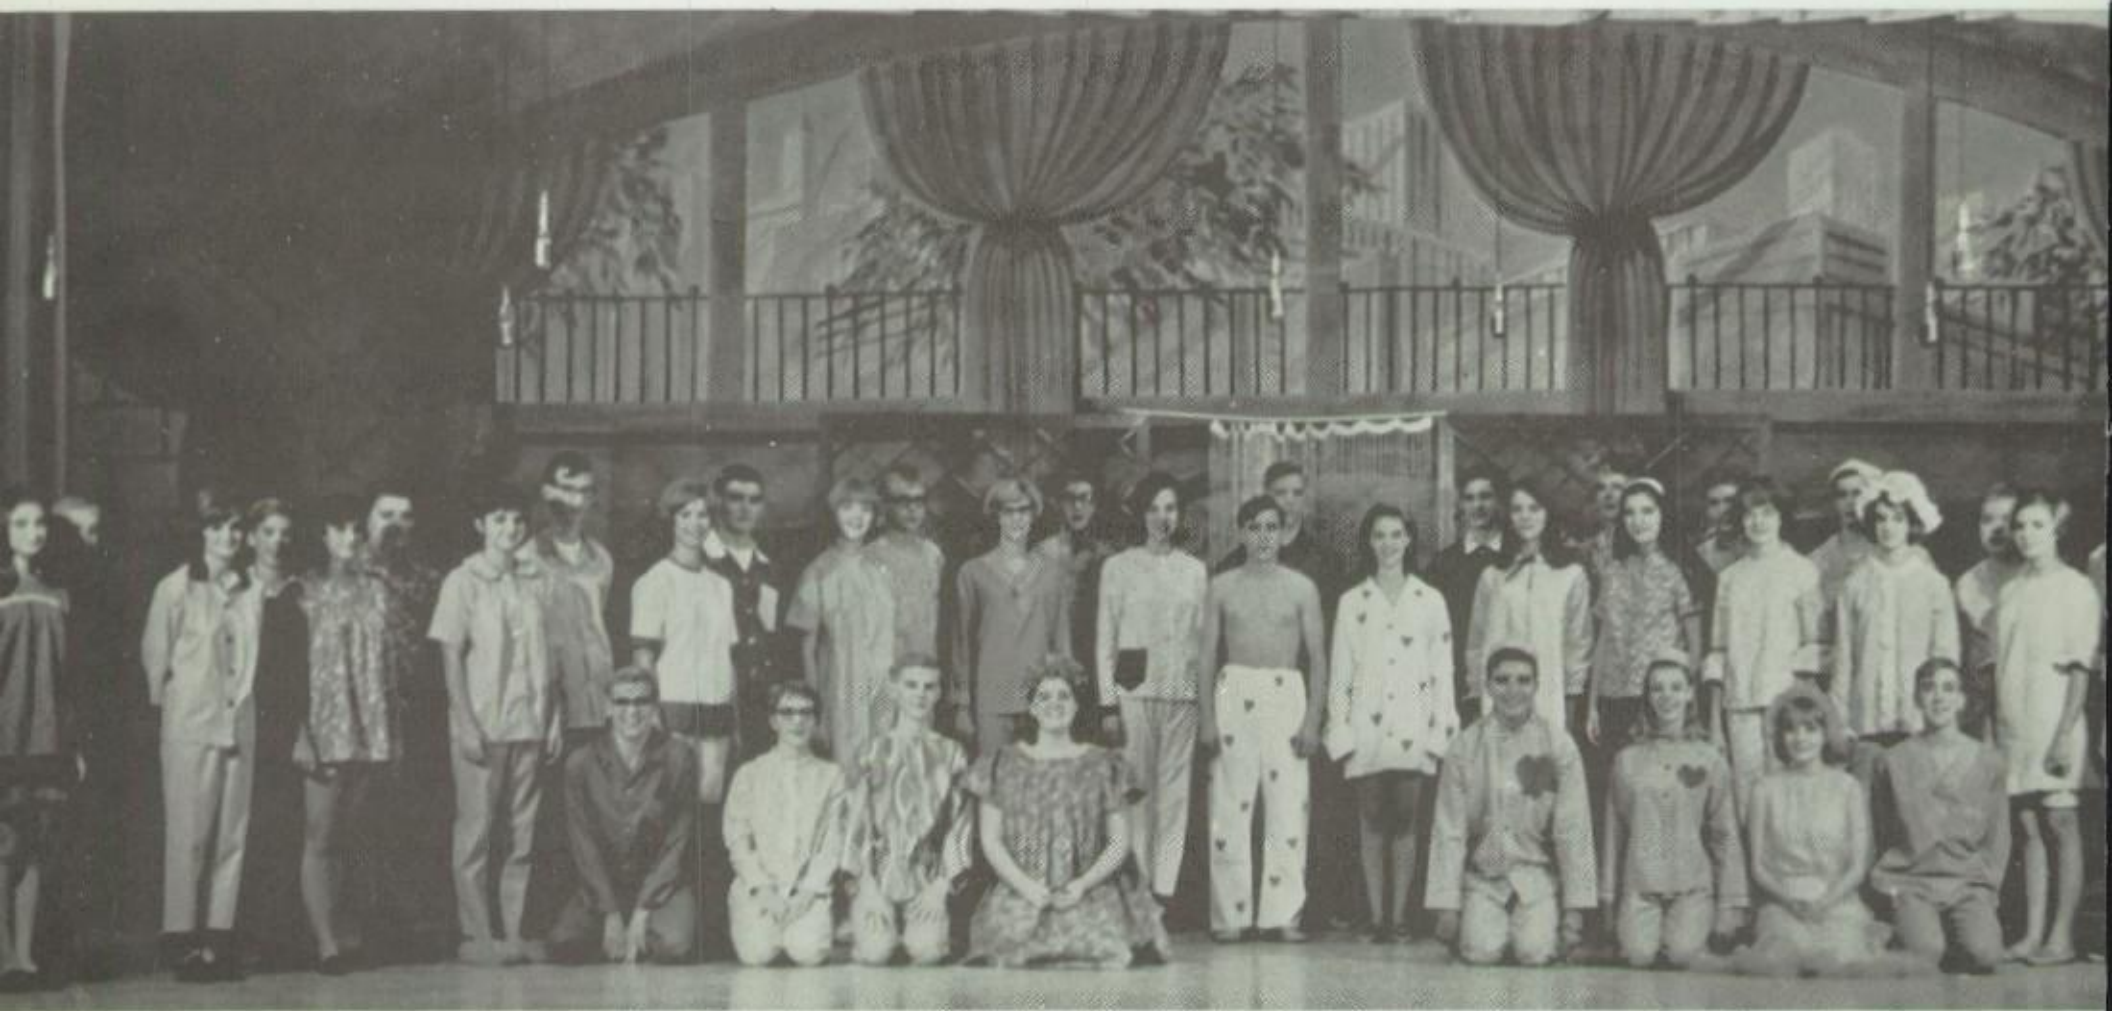

Gladys lets herself go on the annual Sleepytime Picnic.

Swingin' E'z Add Color To Music Department

Five vocal ensembles make up an important part of the vocal department at Eastwood. Each class has a girls' ensemble consisting of nine singers, who perform at community and church functions throughout the year, and at ensemble contest in the spring. Each ensemble meets for a half hour weekly to practice music with advisor Mark Deerwester, in addition to individual practice at home. For the first time this year, alternates are chosen at the beginning of the year, to replace members who are unable to attend a function.

Swingin' E'z, an ensemble which was initiated three years ago, meets for an hour weekly. This group consists of ten girls and ten boys chosen at the beginning of the year on the basis of sight-reading ability, vocal range, and tone quality. All contributions made by organizations go toward the choral award fund.

Volleyball, basketball, hockey, and other sports create an air of enthusiasm among the more than one hundred athletically inclined girls who meet weekly for an hour and a half to form the largest organization in the high school, The Girls' Athletic Association.

Annually the organization sponsors a formal dance and this year was no exception. There was a Christmas Dance which made the holidays more enjoyable for everyone, and come spring, a picnic in honor of the Seniors is held. Mrs. Ruth Mustain, Girls' Physical Education teacher, leads the girls in this activity.

 THIRD ROW: K. Bostdorff, R. Swartz, D. Losey, K. Zellin, M. Woessner, T. Schmeltz, J. Baker, B. Hoelter.

The 1967 freshman football campaign was a satisfactory one. The team, under the guidance of Coach Gary Bierly, holds a 1-4-1 record for the season.

The coach commented that although the statistics do not prove it, the fine group of boys that comprise the team succeeded in many areas. They learned good sportsmanship and acquired the much needed experience that will produce fine players in future years.

Frank Morelock and Mike Alvarez accounted for the four touchdowns throughout the football season. The rest of the team also did a fine job.

These boys are now looking forward to playing with the reserve and varsity squads.

The 1967 football season proved to be quite rewarding for the Eastwood Eagles as they finished with a fine 6-2-1 record and second place in the Northern Lakes League. During the season the Eagles rushed and passed for 2672 yards while holding their opponents to 1060 yards rushing and 609 passing.

The Eagle defense held five opponents to less than 100 yards rushing. The Eagle offense did not swing into high gear until the last three games where they scored 90 points.

The Eagles maintained their winning ways and attitude for the fine group returning next year.

Queen Are 1967 Homecoming Memories

G. Emch carries ball to rack up more yardage for a homecoming win.

With the crowning of charming Queen Belinda Dalgelish and the decisive victory of the Eagle football team over the Lake Flyers, Eastwood's 1967 Football Homecoming proved to be a complete and wonderful success.

On September 29, following the entrance onto the football field by the lovely Queen and her enthusiastic court, the tri-captains presented Queen "Bee" with a bouquet of roses, a pendant, and the traditional crown and kiss.

In honor of Queen Belinda, the Marching Eagle Band presented their halftime show, highlighting the majorettes in a new routine to the music of the "Stripper"

The following Saturday evening, the Homecoming Queen and court reigned over the '67 Football Homecoming Dance.

The Junior Varsity had a fine season this year with a record of 10 wins and only 8 losses. Part of their success must be attributed to the experienced coaching of Mr. Geiger. The team learned how to win with humbleness and to lose without also losing their spirit.

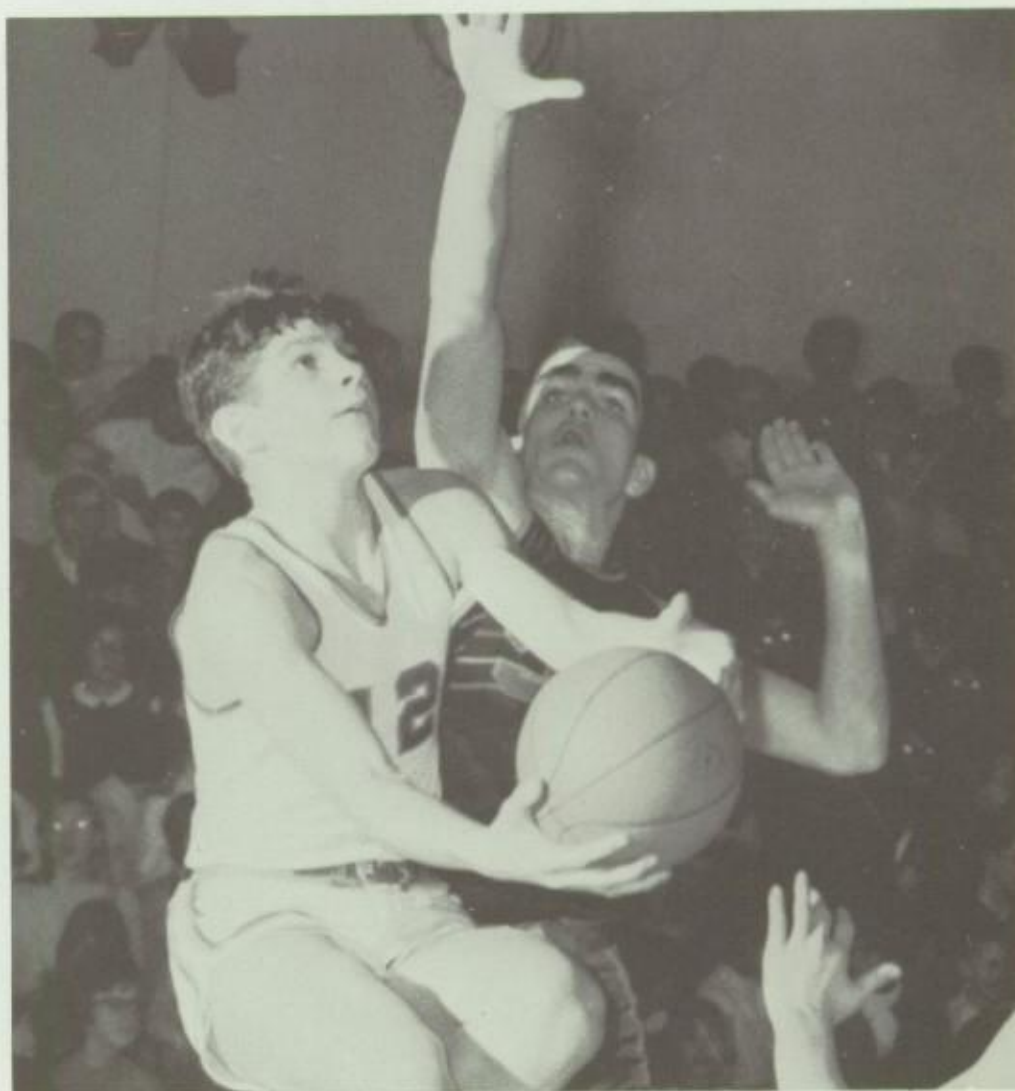

The freshmen also learned that it is not the amount of games you win, it is how you play the game that counts. Under the fine coaching of Mr. Koester, they compiled a record of 4 wins and 9 losses.

Needed Experience As Future Varsity Hopefuls.

As Eagles Present Her With Victory.

M. Brinker goes for two more to help Eagles in homecoming win.

To the soft music of "Moments to Remember," provided by the Eastwood High School Pep Band, Miss Judy Hagemeyer, Eastwood's 1967-68 basketball homecoming queen, was escorted down the aisle formed by the cheerleaders to receive her crown and begin her reign.

The 1966-67 homecoming queen, Miss Patricia Brinker, crowned Queen Judy. Basketball team captain, Michael Gardner, presented her with a pendant, and Gary Dennis, team player, gave her a spray of red roses.

Queen Judy, a pert and pretty blonde haired senior, began her reign as the Fighting Eagles downed the Maumee Panthers 57-55 in a homecoming victory.

The following evening, a homecoming dance sponsored by the Student Council and held in the high school cafeteria, honored Queen Judy and her lovely court.

As Business Manager of the 1968 Aquila I would sincerely like to thank the various establishments on the preceding pages which have supported Eastwood High School. Also, I would like to say to the Class of 1968, Good Luck and Good Fortune.

Again, I thank you.

WILLIAM F. FRANZ
Business Manager

These Things We Remember . . .

The photographs found on the preceding snapshot pages are candid poses of you taken during the typical course of the school year.

Although each picture may not represent anything special to you, we hope that we have captured at least one moment that has a meaning all its own in your heart. In these shots you best represent the year 1968.

Acknowledgements

Dear Subscriber,

The high school years expire so rapidly, and one short academic term is filled with so many events and occasions that one often forgets these important moments. It has been the policy of the Eastwood School District to publish annually a yearbook containing a record of the year's happenings.

This book, the 1968 AQUILA, is the result of this year's attempt to capture and record some of the outstanding moments in the school's history. Speaking generally for the annual staff of 1968, I would like to take this opportunity to say to you, the person who made this publication possible, that we hope you will find one picture or phrase that holds a pleasant memory in your heart.

In the process of publishing such a book, much work is done that is often left unrecognized. As editor of this work, I should like to say, "Thank-you," to the tremendous group of people who offered their services and ideas that, combined together, compose this book.

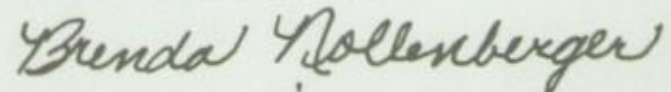

The staff of 1968 was outstanding. They were willing and diligent workers who contributed much of their time and talents to make this AQUILA an unique experience. Among the staff members was an efficient business manager, Bill Franz, whose accomplishments are not forgotten. Also composing the staff was a girl who, having served as the Assistant Editor, will assume the responsibility as next year's editor. Janelle Schneider has devoted much of her energy and ingenuity to help produce a fine yearbook. The staff was advised by a person whose efforts have proved invaluable. To Mrs. Mary Hagemeyer, I extend my most sincere and earnest thanks, for her loyalty and ever-present guidance in all our difficulties.

Although these few words cannot begin to express to the fullest amount, the praise due you people, their importance is not lost, for without you, these pages would lack something of their meaning.

And finally, as evidence of the year, to you, the subscriber, we present the fruits of our labor. We hope you enjoy it.

Sincerely,

The Annual Staff of 1968

Brenda Nollenberger, Editor-in-Chief

Academic Achievers Rewarded

Extra hours of study along with organizational activities are rewarded by membership in the National Honor Society which is open to all sophomores, juniors, and seniors who must obtain a 3.25 scholastic average to be eligible; membership points from organizations must also be accumulated. It is truly an honor to be elected to this very worthwhile organization.

An even greater honor is to be named to the Principal's List which is obtained by seniors maintaining a 3.5 academic average throughout their high school career. This year Eastwood named eight students deserving of this honor.

PRINCIPAL'S LIST: Dennis Konzen, Teri Wegman, Robert Brueggemeier, Mr. Richard Lowrie, Greg Matthews, Nancy Amos, David Huprich, Bonnie Watkins. Absent: Mike Gardner.

Varsity Baseballers

As Spring rolled around, the cry "Play ball!" resounded as the EHS Varsity baseball team took to the diamond. The Eastwood Sluggers ended the playing season with 9 wins, 7 losses and 1 tie. Their NLL record shows 5 wins and 2 losses.

Eagle pitcher, Mike Gardner, was again named to the first NLL All-League Baseball Team. Second team honors went to John Nelson and Dennis Mock.

Eastwood's league hopes run high as the team lost only 4 Seniors, and have some fine Reserve players waiting to join the ranks.

The Eastwood Reserve Squad finished the season with a record of 4 wins and 6 losses. Every member worked hard and kept his eye to the future when he would play on the Varsity Team. They learned to lose with a smile on their faces and tried to correct their errors the next chance they got. With their 4 wins, they learned that teamwork is the main element in a game. This was their main goal and they did a good job at achieving it.

Under the excellent coaching of Mr. Paul Rolf, the team was led on to what can be considered a successful season.

Coach Ed Barney led a hard-working group of thirty-three boys in one of the most active sports at EHS--Track. Compiling a record tempered with defeat, the trackmen not only gained much needed experience for the young squad, but also learned the important lesson of sportsmanship. Losing only nine seniors, the team is looking forward when their experience will result in a winning record next spring.

At the close of the season, Eastwood tracksters marked on their record positions of ninth, fourth, and sixth in the Lakota Invitational, Elmwood Invitational, and the N.L.L. respectively.

EHS Golfer Goes To State

As spring sprung at Eastwood, time to "tee off" also blossomed. Along with it, came the organization of the 1968 EHS Golf Team, which was again quite successful. Placing second in the N.L.L. tournament and fourth in the District competition, Eastwood also took medalist honors with Mike Gardner, whose low score of seventy-two qualified him for state action.

Only three seniors leave the squad this year, thus hopes remain high for another victorious season in the near future.

The Night All Upperclassmen Await

Jr. class president, Raleigh Smith, welcomes seniors at banquet.

Senior, J. Bushman reads will.

Fantasy 'Neath the Waves, the highlighting theme of the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom was very unique in the way it was unified. At six o'clock, the members of both classes attended a banquet. Served in accordance with the theme was shrimp cocktail and perch. Atlantis City 1984 was the basis of the senior class prophecy read by Roger Weber; Jan Bushman read the senior class will. From 9 until 12 girls in lovely formals and boys in uncomfortable tux danced to the music of the Starlighters and were entertained by folk-singers The Lemreaux's in an underwater atmosphere. Most original and remembered of these marine decorations were the wrecked ship with anchor and the lavender "pentapus".

Reynolds Corners Recreation was the fun-spot of the post-prom activities where everyone enjoyed bowling, pool, cards, and dancing to the "Born Losers".

Breakfast was held at the High School gym at 5 A.M.; the longest awaited social event of the school year had come and gone. It was a "Fantasy 'Neath the Waves".

Banquet Lauds Scholars

Outstanding academic students were given various awards at the Annual Scholastic Banquet. Any student who had achieved at least a 3 point average received the title of Honor Student. In addition to these, awards were given to qualified students for National Honor Society members. Individuals who had maintained outstanding records for service and leadership received the "I Dare You" and "Citizenship" awards. The service club, FTA, awarded its scholarship to a hard-working member. Also, excellent accomplishments on various tests such as Americanism test, Alcoholism tests given in accordance with Senior government class, were recognized.

Faculty and administrators wait their turn to present various awards.

Hard Work Results In Many Awards.

As the academic term draws to a close, once again, many students who have achieved outstanding accomplishments receive their due rewards. The high school schedule becomes filled with a trail of banquets and assemblies to honor these individuals.

Spring sports and cheerleaders are given letters, medals and certificates.

At the major of these events, the annual awards convocation, students were recognized for merit ranging from perfect attendance to athletics. Seniors took the most awards in their final assembly. Highlighting the event were the Arion Award, which went to Bonnie Watkins, and the outstanding Forensics student--Richard Rohloff.

Clubs for journalism, G.A.A., F.T.A., F.F.A., Band, Chorus, and the athletic department displayed their outstanding members. The final and long-awaited act was the distribution of the 1968 Aquilas which marked the culmination of another year at Eastwood.

Sic Sic Sez is a secret organization which is chosen by the principal and is under the guidance of the art instructor, Mrs. Wombold.

This year it consisted of 6 members who could be seen sneaking in and out of the art room one night a week. If, by chance, you might see a new sign in the hall when you arrived at school in the morning, you immediately knew Sic Sic Sez was at it again. Making one sign a week may not seem like a lot for one person to do, but the idea for the sign takes creativity and a good imagination.

Students impatiently awaited the Awards Assembly to find out whose creations had been hanging in the hall each week.

The main objective of Sic Sic Sez is to give school spirit a boost and this is exactly what it did.

Mrs. Phyllis Wombold,
Sic Sic Sez advisor.

The year that every high schooler waits for had come and gone quickly. With it came many exciting, worthwhile, and indeed unforgettable experiences for some one hundred forty-odd students seated in the Eastwood High School gymnasium on June 2, 1968. That afternoon, before a capacity crowd, the graduating class of 1968 were reminded of their past four years together and lauded for their accomplishments during that time by guest speakers and school administrators. Among them were Dallas Gardner, superintendent, who entreated them to always remain proud and loyal to their alma mater, and the Reverend Glenn Wegmeyer who advised them to recall that they were Eagles and thus they must, like the mighty eagle, be visionary, fearless, and strong in God. Highlighting the commencement services that evening, was an address given by Lewis C. Turner, whose main point for the EHS seniors was to remind them that commencement was not to be remembered as an end to the days which are high school, but as the initial day that marks each individual's future life--the start of something big.

Concluding the day's events was the long-awaited distribution of the diploma, symbol of achievement, reminder of past days, and challenge for future days. Many tear-stained and hesitant young adults left the halls of Eastwood that night perhaps a little older and wiser, but most of all, they were now a part of the future.

An intrigued group of listeners carefully weigh speaker's words.
